Wound care is an essential part of home care, but staffing all the necessary visits can be challenging for most agencies. This multi-part series will give your nurses the tools they need to properly train nursing assistants and confidently delegate wound care -- all within each person’s scope of practice. The series includes basic wound care instruction for nursing assistants, which can serve as a foundation for agencies to customize their own delegation program. Three on-demand webinars explain wound care products, terms, and procedures, and feature videos of wound care techniques. Participants will have access to a website that includes teaching tools and competency assessments. All webinar recordings and materials will be available through October 16, 2016.
